TO THE PERSON WHO RECEIVED $2,500

Mrs. Thornas J. Moore, wife of a depositor, who presented an order for $2 on the day when the shortage was discovered, and who was arrested but discharged, stoutly and indiamantly denies having received the larger sum. As to her arrest, James McMahon, president of the bank, said to a Tritame reporter yesterday. "Mr. Brennan, who is willing, for his own protection, to pay the amount into the bank, went to the District-Attorney, an assistant advised that Mrs. Moore should be arrested. This was done, he added, but not at the distance of the bank. As a matter of fact, the bank had nothing to do with the arrest, and its skirts are clear on that score.

The clerks of the bank, especially those who paid mothey on orders, had many hard questions to answer yesterday, and the extent of their good nature was severely tested by the patrons of the institution. Mrs. Thomas J. Moore, wife of a depositor, who

DIED ON REACHING THIS COUNTRY.

Among the passengers on the steamer Germanic, which arrived at her pier yesterday morning, was Emma Larsen, a Swedish woman, thirty-three years old, of No. 34 Luquer-st., Brooklyn. She was so ill with heart trouble that an ambulance was called and she was removed to St. Vincent's Hospital, where she died a few hours later. The dead woman was unaccompanied by friends and is said to have returned from a trip to Sweden, where she went to tisk her parents.

VERDICT FOR A SAVINGS BANK.

The jury that has been trying before Justice Daly in Trial Term. Part IX, of the Supreme Court, an action brought by the administrators of the estate of John Geoghegan against the Bank for Savings to recover $2,000 belonging to the extate, returned a verdict yesterday in favor of the bank. John Geoghegan died in 1881, and, it was alleged. John Geognegari the Bank for Savings. The bank officials declared that the money had been deposited by Owen Geoghegan, known better as "Owney" Geoghegan, and that he had withdrawn be money a month after his father's death.

MEETING AT THE BOWERY MISSION.

There was a large and enthusiastic meeting at the Bowery Mission, No. 105 Bowery, last evening, when J. H. Wyburn was installed as superintendent of the mission. Mr. Wyburn was converted eight years ago at the McAuley Water Street Mission, in which he has since been an active worker. He was superintendent of the Grand Army Mission, under the old Pension Agency, in Canal-st. which was discontinued when the agency was moved further uptown.

Deputy-Sheriff Williams yesterday received an execution for $54,757 against Aaron H. Rathbone, insurance broker, of No. 56 Pine-st., in favor of Juliet B. Earl. He allowed judgment to be taken against him for $23,750, with interest from September 14, 1875, amounting to $30,957. The claim is for the value of twenty-six Chicago and Northwestern Railroad Company's bonds, deposited with him in 1875 and held by him in trust for the plaintiff, as indemnity against his liability on two real estate bonds and mortgages of $20,000, which railroad bonds, she asserts he disposed of, keeping the proceeds. He has been an insurance broker for forty years and an organizer of several Lloyds.

FRAUDULENT "KOSHER" MEAT. The Hebrew Butchers' Benevolent Association has begun proceedings to ustermine the legal status of the Jewish religious ceremony attending the slaughtering of cattle. The first step was taken yesterday in the Essex Market Police Court, when Magistrate Brann issued a summons, returnable of Tuesday, for David Rosenberg, a butcher, of No. 117 Hester-st., on the representation that he was sell ing meat under false pretences. The meat used by the strictly orthodox Jews is known as "kosher," and to be recognized as such must bear the seal of the rabbl who is delegated to kill cattle according to the Jewish rites. Mrs. Lena Goldberg, who is the complainant against Rosenberg, is employed as a cook in the house of an least Side Jewish family. She asserted in court yesterday that on a recent occasion she purchased fifty-two pounds of meat from Rosenberg. When she received it she discovered that it was not 'Rosher,' and she was obliged to throw it away. She says that Rosenberg has a sign in his window announcing that he sells nothing but 'Rosher' meat, and that he represented so to her. Counsel for the Hebrew butchers told the Magistrate that ordinary meat has been sold extensively throughout the city under the guise of being 'Rosher,' and that the discovery of the practice has wounded the feelings of many sensitive orthodox Jews. 'Rosher' meat, he said, costs more than the other kind, and certain butchers had made a good deal of money by the deception. A number of rabbies will appear as witnesses in the case. must bear the seal of the rabbl who is delegated to
